Ref.: Doubts About the Quality of Bee Products from Brazil After the Last News of Scandal Involving Brazilian Food Companies.

Regarding the recent scandals involving companies investigated by the Brazilian Federal Police, under the accusation of selling adulterated products, Apiário Polenectar (SIF 3906) would like to reaffirm to its clients and partners its commitment and reliability in the face of such facts.

Most accusations are related to beef and poultry companies, which used to sell rotten products or products contaminated with harmful chemicals. Although, amongst the charged companies there is also one manufacturer of Bee Products, under the accusation of corruption involving inspectors from the Brazilian Ministry of Agriculture. So, there are no risks or danger related to the quality of Brazilian Bee Products such as Honey, Propolis (Bee Glue), Royal Jelly and Bee Pollen.

Apiário Polenectar (SIF 3906), with more than 30 years of history, reaffirms its commitment to the quality of its products, being one of the export leaders to countries with high hygienic-sanitary regulations like the United States, Canada, South Korea, the United Arab Emirates and Japan. Also in these countries, we perform laboratorial tests to ensure the quality of our products, following the most strict standards worldwide.
